BULLIED, RIDICULED, SCORNED A young boy grows up being bullied, not because he is weird, a nerd, or odd, but because of his name. He is the fifth in line to take his ancestral name: Adolf Hidler. During his youth, he becomes the brunt of all the problems at school, causing him to react violently, and spend most of his time in the principal s office. After one violent episode, his father sends him to a military academy. While spending his time in the army, he meets up with a long time foe that bullies him during boot camp. The confrontation ends in Adolf s favor, sending him to the East Coast. After years of living on the East Coast, he marries, has two children, and returns to California to reunite with his parents. Unfortunately, his life never changes, but learns to live with his mis-fortune.
