The people and communities originated from the Turkish race were spread from two main streams: Oghuz and Kipchak - The Oghuz group consisted of twenty four tribes who were referred in many national sources started with Mahmud of Kashgar. The Kipchak originated communities who settled in Asia from North East to North West, in Eastern Europe -even in Western Europe-, and in Caucasus were divided also into 24 groups. The Kipchaks like Oghuzs had 24 different seals (damga, tamga, tamka), however we do not have related scientific public opinion unfortunately. Regarding the relations of Turkish communities settled in Anatolia with the other communities coming from the same origin, the historic, sociological and ethnographic sources are necessary to be restudied.
